Iftaar Dinner at IIM Lucknow

Lucknow, 29, August 2011

A confluence of Indian culture and traditions at IIM Lucknow

At IIM Lucknow all religions are treated equally, the IIML community members have always been a part of all the festivities irrespective of caste, creed or religion.

The month of Ramzan is not an exception. IIM Lucknow organised a iftaar dinner on the day of alvida (last day Friday of this auspicious month). The dinner was organised by the mess committee and student's council backed by the team of mess staff. Elaborately laid out food counters with special iftaar preparations were attracting everyone. The mouth watering menu included fine selection of vegetarian and non vegetarian items, exotic chicken and mutton biryani accompanied by a variety of mouth watering and gravy loaded preparations from the chefs, in desserts one had the option to choose from traditional sevia's to dollops of vanilla ice cream with chocolate sauce or fruit salad.

The Iftar dinner was attended by Prof. Devi Singh, the Director of IIM Lucknow, Prof. Ajay Garg, Chairman, Student Affairs, Prof. Ashwani Kumar, Chairman, PGP and other faculty members. The function was enjoyed by the students, faculty and the staff alike. "Iftar celebration was very enjoyable. We plan to celebrate all Indian festivals to keep a lively spirit on the campus and enjoy the diversity in our country" said Saikumar Vuppala, Mess Secretary of IIM Lucknow. The Indian Iftar reflects the diversity in India The occasion provides for much gaiety and not to mention very tasty food
